THE TORONTO DAILY STAR, TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1932

TORONTO BASEBALL CLUB LOSES ANOTHER STERLING EXECUTIVE

The death of Business Manager William F. O'Hara yesterday came as a tremendous shock to the club's friends and supporters and is regarded as a serious loss to the club. A few months ago the club's business manager was elected to the position of first baseman of the Toronto club, and as he was when he was in the prime of a player.

By W. A. Hewitt, Sporting Editor of The Star

BILL O'HARA, SPORTSMAN AND BUSINESS MAN, TAKEN BY THE most sporting crowd was shocked last night by the news from New York that "Bill" O'Hara, business manager of the Toronto Ball Club, had passed away during a brief illness. He was not only a great player himself but one of the best managers the game ever knew, an athlete in the world over, a manager of the team's affairs in every respect, and one of the most popular men in Toronto. His playing career was also remarkable of Toronto and he was well and favorably known wherever he went. He was one of the few players born in Toronto to make good in the major league and John McGraw, for whom he played in New York, said he was the finest player of his day he ever saw. He was born and raised in the Toronto Ball Club for some years and his death

The Song of Amergin

I am a stag of seven tines,
I am a wild flood on a plain,
I am a wind on the deep waters,
I am a shining tear of the Sun,
I am a hawk on a cliff,
I am fair among the flowers,
I am a god who sets the head afire with smoke,
I am a battle-waging spear,
I am a salmon in the pool,
I am a hill of poetry,
I am a ruthless boar,
I am a threatening noise of the sea,
I am a wave of the sea,
Who but I knows the secret of the unhewn dolmen?

Members of O'Hara clan include archbishops, writers and movie stars. By Shauna O'Halloran.

Variants: Ó hEaghra

Hailing from County Sligo, O'Hara's are descendants of Eaghra, once Lord of Luighne (an ancient territory in province of Connacht) and member of household of Ollum, King of Munster. Eaghra died in 976, but O'Hara clan remained an important sept, and held their ranks as Lords of Luighne (today called Leyney) until 17th century, and held lands in Sligo up until as recent as 19th century.

Vivien Leigh

By 14th century, clan had divided into two distinct septs, led by two chiefs known as O'Hara Buide (yellow, or fair, presumably referring to his hair) and O'Hara Reagh (rough-faced) and center of septs were held at village of Ballyharry (from 'Ballyhara'). As landlords, O'Haras held over 20,000 acres (8,000 hectare) of land in Sligo, and at one time a branch migrated north to County Antrim, where there were numerous marriages between O'Haras and great families of area. Descendants could be found there in later years under name O'Haran or Haren. Today, most O'Haras are still found in Sligo and Leitrim.

Of famous O'Haras throughout history, there have been a number of Bishops, including Bishop William O'Hara, first bishop of Scranton, Pennsylvania after whom there is a school named and John Francis O'Hara , Archbishop of Philadelphia who was named Cardinal by Pope John XXIII. James O'Hara, an entrepreneur, served as one of General Washington's supporters throughout American War of Independence, and was credited with development of business in Pittsburgh and the development of West.

In more recent years, celebrated bearers of name include John O'Hara, distinguished short story writer and novelist whose works include Appointment in Samarra and Butterfield 8 (latter was made into an Oscar winning movie, starring Elizabeth Taylor). O'Hara, who wrote regularly for New Yorker magazine, died in 1970.

Screen icon Maureen O'Hara, star of The Hunchback of Notre Dame, Miracle on 34th Street and classic The Quiet Man, was born Maureen Fitzsimons in Dublin. After training at famous Abbey Theater, she was scouted and taken to London for a screen test with actor Charles Laughton, which led on to fame and fortune. At height of her career, Maureen was described as one of world's most beautiful women, and enjoyed in particular a sparkling on-screen chemistry with John Wayne in five feature films they made together between 1948 and 1972. Today, she resides in County Cork and has opened Maureen O'Hara Foundation Museum near her home in Glengarriff.

Perhaps most famous O'Hara of all, however, is fictional character of Scarlett O'Hara, played by Vivien Leigh in Hollywood epic, Gone with the Wind, based on book by Margaret Mitchell. Scarlett is spoiled daughter of a rich plantation owner who finds herself battling dire poverty during American Civil War.

Ancestry[\[edit\]](#)

Eaghra Poprigh mac Saorghus was a member of the Gailenga people of north Connacht. They were originally from the kingdom of Brega on the east coast of Ireland. Dubhaltach Mac Fhirbhisigh (665.5., pp. 654–665) gives his pedigree as:

- Eaghra Paiprigh, from whom are Ui Eaghra, s. Saorghus s. Béac s. Flaithgheas, from whom are Clann Flaithgheasa, s. Taichleach (aforementioned) s. Ceann Faoladh s. Diarmuid s. Fionnbharr s. Bréanainn s. Nad Fraoich s. Fidhsheang (or Finnéan, or Idhéan, or Fidhean, or Iodhan) s. Fiodhchuire, from whom are Ui Fhiodhchuire, s. Airtchearb s. Nia Corb s. Loí, from whom are Luighne, s. Cormac Gaileang s. Tadhg.

The last name is that of Tadhg mac Cian, described at 660.6 (pp. 646–647) as the son of Cian, son of Ailill Aulom. Cian is given as the son of Sadhbh inion Conn Cétchathach (661.1, pp. 646–647). At 660.4 on the same pages is written:

- It is the family of Cian which is announced openly here according to the old books which begin thus below: The families of Éibhear in Leath Chuinn: eastern and western Gaileanga, southern and northern Cianachta, eastern and western Luighne, and the four (or seven) Dealbhna, i.e., Dealbhna Mhór and Dealbhna Bheag in Midhe and Dealbhna of Eathair in western Midhe, and Dealbhna of Tír Dhá Loch in Connacht.

Members of the family feature in the Old Irish tale, Battle of Maigh Mucruimhe, in which Cian and his six brothers were killed in the battle.
